

Roosevelt, Like Cox, Great Lover of Horses

EVENING SERVICES PROVING POPULAR

The lawn services being conducted at the Central Presbyterian church every Sunday evening are proving very popular. Tomorrow evening the third of the series is to be conducted beginning at 7 o'clock, and the service is for the young people and the members of the congregation. Walter G. Murphy and Miss Celeste Olson are to have charge this week, and there will be special orchestra music, followed by a 10-minute talk by the pastor, Rev. J. T. Mordy. His subject will be "Faithfulness."

All The News All The Time—The Argus

She who travels with an Indestructo knows real trunk quality—strength plus comfort.

Strength is of first importance because security insures service.

INDESTRUCTO TRUNKS

are the only trunks so constructed that five years' trunk service can be guaranteed. The laminated wood construction accounts for the wonderful wearing quality.

Do You Use Work-Organizers?

Are they the handiest thing you ever used on your desk?

Tell your business associates and friends that we have them, here, in several grades and sizes. Tell them also, how they help you organize your desk—clear the top and drawers for action and solve the littered desk problem. How they help you keep all papers out of the way, yet instantly accessible when wanted.

We will be especially glad to show these to your friends—and to show them the many other modern office helps we have here. Bring them in, or send them in.

Tell them to ask us for a copy of the Work-Organizer bulletin, "How to Organize Desk Work," a copy of which you received in your Work-Organizer.
